

Nick Begich (R-AK-AL)

BIOGRAPHY

Entrepreneur and member of an Alaskan political dynasty seeking to limit spending, taxes, and inflation, while expanding the natural resource industries in Alaska

EDUCATION

MBA, Indiana University Bloomington, 2002; BBA, Baylor University, 1999

WORK HISTORY

Candidate for House in Alaska's At-Large District, 2022-Present; FarShore Partners, 2006-Present;

SEAT FLIP

Read the full profile on Almanac.

POLICY POSITIONS

Seeks to expand use of Alaskan resources, while ensuring nonrenewable resources like timber and fish are harvested only at sustainable levels

- Supports an "all-of-the-above" approach to energy development; calls for Alaskan resources such as oil and gas to be developed to bolster the state's economy and drive US manufacturing developments; wants to reform permitting processes for mining in Alaska, citing the state's quantities of "rare earths, critical minerals, base metals, and precious metals" on his campaign website

Supports continued Trump-era tax cuts and unlocking Alaska's natural resources to fuel the economy

- If elected, Begich wants to use Alaska's natural resources to bolster the state's economy and fuel the US, especially with oil and natural gas; supports an extension of Trump-era tax cuts, set by the 2017 Tax Cuts and Jobs Act

DISTRICT PROFILE: AK-AL

POPULATION

733,406

MEDIAN HOUSEHOLD INCOME

$86,631

RACE & ETHNICITY

58% White, 2.8% Black, 5.9% Asian, 7.5% Hispanic

DONATIONS

Total raised: $2,039,582

TOP THREE INDUSTRIES

- Retired
- Republican/Conservative
- Real Estate

ELECTION RESULTS

2024
GENERAL:

Peltola* (46.4%)

* Incumbent ■ Other

Begich (48.4%)

CPR* RATING:

Toss Up

